

Ressnews

Yo, welcome to Ressnews! We're 1.A and this is the very first writing of Ressnews – your school magazine, made by students who actually get it. No fake smiles, just real stuff – from interviews and opinions to memes, weird stories, and whatever's running around school.

This is our first try, but we're not planning to stop anytime soon. We wanna keep this going for the next few years, make it better, louder, funnier and maybe even a little bit chaotic. If you're down for that, stay with us. Stay tuned.

Anděl awards

Introduction

The prestigious Anděl awards ceremony took place on April 5th at the Prague Exhibition Center. At this ceremony, musicians get czech music awards given by the Academy of Popular Music. Winners get an angel statue with outstretched wings playing a shawn. This year's ceremony was moderated by Martin 'Mikýř' Mikyska (the winner of Survivor 2024).

Fashion police

The dress code for the evening was black tie creative. Ewa Farna had two dresses that night. The first burgundy dress was see-through and it was designed by Tomáš Němec, the second garment (which she performed her concert in) designed by Jana Horejšová was made from leather and it had fringes all over it. Mikýř was wearing one of the most creative men's outfits that night. His red suit was designed by Jan Černý.

Process of the evening

The night began with celebrities arriving and presenting their outfits on the red carpet. After the awards were distributed, the concerts began. The most talked-about performance was the duet Ewa Farna and Annet X. Their collaboration 'To je moje holka' earned them the award in the Joint project category.

Winners of each categories

- Album of the year: Vladimír Mišík - Vteřiny, měsíce a roky
- Song of the year: Pam Rabbit - Space
- Joint project: Ewa Farna, Annet X - To je moje holka
- Discovery of the year: Kvietah - Díky, včely
- Rap: Viktor Sheen - Impostor syndrom

Easter - quiz

Easter around the world is very different from our traditions. I would like to show you some interesting ones.

SPAIN

In Spain, some people dress up in costumes with large hats and hoods, and parade through the streets, reenacting scenes from the Passion of Christ, while people are standing aside and cheering.

NORWAY, FINLAND

If you like American Halloween traditions, you can visit Norway or Finland. Children go door-to-door, dressed up as witches with painted faces and if you give them some treats, they will bless you with luck for the next year.

GERMANY

Our neighbours in Germany, celebrate Easter with large bonfires across the countryside. On Holy Saturday they light them up to chase away winter and its darkness and celebrate the coming of spring.

UNITED KINGDOM

If you like marzipan, I recommend celebrating Easter in the United Kingdom, because during Easter, especially on Easter Sunday a Simnel cake which is, fruitcake topped with 11 marzipan balls - representing the apostles, minus Judas - is traditionally eaten.

ITALY

Some people that like fireworks should visit Florence, Italy, because they celebrate by igniting large, decorated carts filled with fireworks in front of the Duomo. This explosion symbolizes peace and good fortune for the coming year.

Which one of these traditions you like the most, and would you like to try some of these instead of our ones?

Try our Quiz:

Chemical Pollution in the ocean

PFAS or forever chemicals are a group of several thousand chemicals that are polluting our ocean. They remain in the ocean for generations and it's almost impossible to remove them and you can find them almost everywhere.

There are now proven links between harmful chemicals and the health of animals. These include damage to their nervous systems, immunity and their ability to reproduce.

Otters - All otters that died between 2014 - 2019 all contained two types of restricted PFAS and 80% of them had at least 12 types of chemicals in their bodies.

Polar bears - Forever chemicals impact polar bear's behaviours and hormonal balance.

Killer Whales - The UK's killer whale population has not produced any new calves in the last two decades. If this trend continues, the population could collapse completely within the next 100 years.

Harbour porpoises - Are at an increased risk of infectious diseases as a result of an accumulation of harmful chemicals in their systems.

Seal pups - 18 days old seal pups have already accumulated high enough levels of harmful chemicals in their blubber to impact function, which may negatively impact their ability to survive their first year of life at sea.

Turtles - Sea turtles are impacted by a multitude of pollutants, ranging from toxic metals to plastics, noise, and light, this can lead to disease, starvation, habitat destruction, and disorientation.

The Minecraft movie

The minecraft movie is a long anticipated adaptation of one of the most popular games of all time, Minecraft.

The story follows a group of four people in our world, sad and stressed with all kinds of troubles. Two siblings Natalie and Henry, older guy Garrett and a girl named Dawn, all struggling with money and living. After an accident, they are magically teleported into the world of Minecraft, a world with unlimited resources and creativity where anything is possible. In this world a mysterious guy named Steve introduces them to the world and the great danger coming from the nether. Throughout the movie, they help Steve to save his world from this danger and learn important lessons to help them in life.

The movie ends with all of them, now including Steve, returning to the real world and continuing their lives. The movie is pretty mediocre overall but could be funny if you take it less seriously.

Mememes about the Minecraft movie

The new Minecraft movie came out a few weeks ago and many people like it. Old players are really enjoying it and are also joking about it in a fun way. Some parts of the movie feel very special or remind people of the past, so fans are making mememes about those scenes.

The most famous is the “Chicken jockey” phrase.

Fans are throwing their popcorn and shouting whenever Steve says this line.

Some movie theatres are even calling the police because of the chaos. Some fans even bring the real hen into the movie theatre. Then there are some other lines that have something to do with the game.

E.g. the line “Flint and steel” or “The Nether”

The Actor of main character Jack Black created the new song Lava chicken and it has enormous hype on the internet.

